

Advocacy & Awareness: Project Limón, Nicaragua

Los Pipitos Therapy Program

Overview: Although tourism has been on the rise in Nicaragua, the community of Limón is still left behind in terms of access to health care and resources. Quite often, families and children with disabilities are even more so left behind which creates even greater barriers for these children to lead full and productive lives. The Los Pipitos Developmental Program provides support to children with disabilities as well as their families through physical therapy sessions. This allows the children to receive high quality care and individualized attention dependent on the child's needs.

Discussion Questions:

1. As tourism continues to rise in developing countries, what are ways in which the local population could benefit rather than creating a larger gap in opportunities?
2. How are individuals with disabilities treated in your community?
3. What are ways to positively include individuals with disabilities that decreases the barrier for both those without and those with a disability?
